

6 REASONS WHY I LOVE SOUTH KOREA

What I 'DESCRIBE' about Korea

It's amazing how a country can become so important to me as soon as I got to know it. That country is no other than South Korea. It's a country of extraordinary sceneries, beautiful tourist spots, and flourishing cities with amazing technology.

With natives so kind that it makes you feel at home.

Among other hundreds and thousands of people, I too am mesmerized by South Korea's charms.

Here I list 6 reasons why I love South Korea:

1. Cafes:

South Korea is well known for its aesthetic cafes with delicious treats and drinks to try!

We can see cafes on every street, especially in Seoul (the capital city) and other cities like Gwangju, Gyeonggi-do, Daegu, Iksan, and many more making it a total of approximately 70,000 cafes around the country.

Some of these cafes are themed cafes i.e. book cafes, study cafes, animal cafes, comic book cafes, flower cafes, hanok cafes, character cafes, and nap cafes.

These cafes look so cute and beautiful that I could seriously spend my entire day there.

Some of these cafes are so cozy that it can be said that if you go to South Korea you are bound to 100% find a café that just clicks with your personality. There is a cafe for every season. In summer, you can find cafes that have a breezy environment for a cool indoor as well as an outdoor sitting area. While in winter, some cafes are so comfy that you can even take a nap while sipping on hot coffee. You can enjoy the aesthetic of flowery spring in a flower café even the smell and feel of the autumn season.

2. Technology:

I can say that South Korea is undoubtedly becoming the leading country in Information and Technology! With its investment in Research and Development projects, South Korea presented the world with exciting and astonishing technological inventions. This breakthrough was presented by Samsung, Hyundai, Kia Motors, and LG.

And I love all of these brands!

KIA MOTORS

Entering the city of Seoul, it feels like you have entered another dimension that is filled with mind-blowing technology. Not only there are fancy contraptions in every corner of the city but they work like a charm and are at their finest while assisting humanity. You can see the hard work of engineers and inventors who have created these inventions in such an aesthetic way that instead of feeling burdened because of these machines, you can enjoy working with them. In short, the city still feels wholesome despite its futuristic vibe of the city.

3. Language

The Korean language is very different. There are around 80 million Korean-speaking natives. Many other non-natives speak Korean while some are learning. The moment I got to know about the Korean language, I immediately fell in love with it and got so immersed that I decided to learn the language. And now I am on that journey. The language is unique and interesting; each time I sit down and do my language learning routine, I learn something new, letting me keep going.

The writing system is called Hangeul, consisting of vowels and consonants. Hangeul calligraphy is so beautiful that one can simply drown in the process of calligraphy by the subtle movements of the brush and the beautiful lines that create the words.

4. Entertainment

The introduction of South Korea is incomplete without praising the Entertainment industry. Korean Dramas and Korean Music(K-pop) are super cool. There are dramas in multiple genres and music with outstanding vocals, visuals, sets, and performances.

I can say that South Korea is undoubtedly becoming one of the main leads in the Entertainment Industry.

Korea is widely known for its entertainment industry in such a way that people first like its songs and dramas and then find out that it's Korean. This shows how eye-catching and mesmerizing this industry is. They have such a balanced amount of entertainment for all ages. Korean movies and dramas are well known for the most interesting, thrilling, and mega plot twist storylines which are enjoyed by everyone.

The same is true for the music industry or the Kpop industry, where each music video is show-stopping and the music is so catchy that you don't need to know the language to enjoy the music.

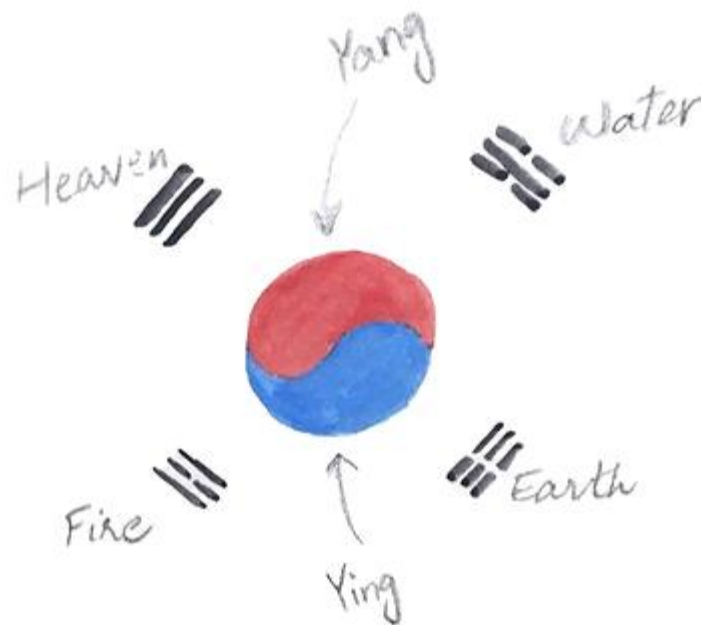

This says a lot about how globally-loved this industry is. And South Korean variety shows are not only interviews but also fun activities show that can be a fun thing to watch on family nights.

I think that the type of South Korean entertainment appeals a lot to a creative mind and creative people do get inspired by it.

5. Flag

I find Korea's flag interesting as it consists of different elements that represent different meanings.

The white background in the flag symbolizes peace, the circle shows the yin-yang symbol representing universal balance; the red symbolizes positive cosmic energies while the blue symbolizes negative cosmic forces. The trigrams on each corner of the flag represent four elements; the sun, moon, earth, and heaven.

How can a flag be so fascinating?!

6. Manners

Korean people show immense respect to each other by bowing, speaking politely, and respecting their elders. They greet each other and even behave well while eating.

I have always been so intrigued by Korean table manners. In their culture, there are not one or two examples but in fact, every person in South Korea follows them religiously, and it is good to see this sense of an organized society where a respected environment can be created. Every person has boundaries. They respect these boundaries of age differences. It feels appealing that the society is matured and organized which is the key to a very well-developed country, South Korea itself.
